

Life's Lessons for Lindsay Rose Asendorf

Laughter turns the bad times into good and makes the good times better.

Including a smile whenever you ask for something increases your chances of getting it

Negative thoughts by others can always be erased by your positive actions

Doing the right thing sometimes isn't easy, but doing the wrong thing is always hard

Sometimes the hardest questions have the simplest answers

Attempting something and failing is always better than not trying at all

Yes is the best word you can use when some asks for your help

Racing to the finish line is never as important as finishing the race

Ordinary people can accomplish extraordinary fea

Subsitute bad feelings with happy thoughts and you'll never stay sad

Elevating people to your level is better than lowering yourself to theirs

A nytime someone tells you they need to talk, always be prepared to listen

L uck comes along when you least expect it, that's why you can't depend on it

Seeing the good in people doesn't mean overlooking their faults, just acceptinng them

D etermination always pay off when you least expect it

O lder brothers will always look out for you, however you also need to look after them

R especting authority never means you must always obey it

F ollow every lesson life teaches you very carefully and everything will fall into place
